COMMUNITY HEALTH INITIATIVE (CHI)
FALL 2015 STUDENT CONSULTING PROJECTS

CALL FOR APPLICATIONS

ABOUT THE PROJECTS
The University of Minnesota’s Office for Business and Community Economic Development is proud to announce the Fall 2015 Community Health Initiative (CHI) Student Consulting Projects. This program is designed to support organizations that work to address public health issues impacting underserved communities.

CHI Student Consulting Projects are experiential learning opportunities for University of Minnesota graduate and professional students. Students work on specific projects that have been identified by local nonprofit organizations or businesses that are involved in addressing public health issues. These projects attempt to solve a business need of the organization or address a health disparity in the community. Projects may focus on areas including but not limited to market research, needs assessments, program evaluation, communications and marketing, project health administration, and community outreach. Each project is matched with one or two students who will each contribute 60 to 80 hours to the project work. Projects run September through December 2015.
